

SPF Matrix
		Social Services	Income Security along the Life-Course
		Health	Children	Working-Age	Older Persons
Coverage Level	4	All residents have access to essential publicly funded health care services.	All children have access to a nationally defined minimum level of publicly funded income security.	All working-age residents have access to a nationally defined minimum level of publicly funded income security.	All older persons have access to a nationally defined minimum level of publicly funded income security.
	3	Publicly funded health care is currently implemented, but gaps in coverage remain.	Publicly funded income security is currently available, but does not reach all children.	Publicly funded income security is currently available, but does not reach all working age residents.	Publicly funded income security is currently available, but does not reach all older persons.
	2	Constitutional provisions or legislation entitles residents to health coverage, but publicly funded schemes are not currently implemented.	Constitutional provisions or legislation entitles children to income security, but publicly funded schemes are not currently implemented.	Constitutional provisions or legislation entitles working age residents to income security, but publicly funded schemes are not currently implemented.	Constitutional provisions or legislation entitles older persons to income security, but publicly funded schemes are not currently implemented.
	1	Residents only have access to private health care and there is no legal framework for the provision of public health care.	Children only have access to private social security and there is no legal framework for the provision of public income security.	Working-age residents only have access to private income security and there is no legal framework for the provision of public income security.	Older persons only have access to private income security and there is no legal framework for the provision of public income security.

